FREW & CAMPBELL

mes: Nos. 25 and 27 Fourteenth St. THURADAY MORNING, JUNE 23.

THE Albany Argus thinks $200,000 has been spent on the Legislature.

LOOKING forward to 1884, the Chicago Times observes that there is a world of grit and grip in Samuel J. Tilden yet.

ENGLISH pig iron is within five per cent as low as in January 1879, a time of pro-found depression. It is not surprising that a big iron firm has collapsed in Boston, that more furnaces in the United States were blown out than lighted in the last quarter, and that iron production has begun to be unprofitable.

Dg. Howard Crossy in his baccalaurate Sunday told the sludents of the University of the City of New York that "the prominent vice of our social system was the lack of subjection of children to their pa-He had seen young men order their fathers round shops and "often seen others pack off their mothers to the garre to live to give the young people more

A REPUBLICAN exchange says that General Grant ought to know that but 10 per cent of his force at Chicago had Republi can constituencies behind them; that the strong Republican districts were almost without exception against him; that Robertaon was elected a delegate as a Blaine man, and refused to obey instructions that the State Convention had no authority

BLAST FURNACE slag and cinder, is turned to a useful purpose at the Sclessin Iron Works, near Liege, Belgium, After the molten slag has escaped from the furnace it is conveyed immediately to a stream of cold water. The effect of this is a division of the sleg into a substance very like coarse cand. This substance is then raised by an elevator and deposited in wagons, which convey it away to places where it will be applied as an excellent "ballast ing" for railroads.

In Massachusetts the tax on mortgaged property is abolished to the extent of the amount mortgaged. For instance, a man bays a house for $5 000, pays one half of the price and gives a mortgage for $2,500, he pays taxes only on $2 500. This is just law, as he really owns but $2,500 in the property, the mortgager owning the other half. Hence under the new law the tax is divided between the mortgager and mortgagee. In most of the States, West Virginia among the rest, double taxation still prevails on mortgaged property. The mortgagee pays tax on the mortgage as pe:sonal property and the mortgager on the house as real property.

THE activity in building enterprises which has prevailed in most of the West ern cities this season is just now experiencing a serious set-back in the shape of strikes for higher wages. At St. Paul Minn., for example, the Trades Union has decreed that after the lat of July bricklayers "shalt" receive $4 per day, or no work shall be performed. The bosses and contractors units in saying that that standard of wages would leave them no margin of profit; and as they do not propose to carry on business at a loss, notice is given that they will suspend operations on and after the day mentioned if the Union persist in their demand; provided meanwhile, they are unable to supply the places of the strikers with non-Union Tus subject of Oremation was extensively and intelligently discussed by the Chicago Medical Society on Monday last. There seemed to be substantial unity of opinion among all the speeches in favor of Cremation. It was recognized as the coming method of disposing of the dead It had too much to recommend it, in point especially of economy and the public health, to be successfully opposed on grounds of mere sentiment. It was shown that fire simply does in an hour what time does in a few years, and all the dangers of putildity, water poisoning and noxious exhalations are avoided. In addition it effects an immense saving to the poor. Cremation need cost only $5 or $10 especially after proper public facilities are provided, whereas costly funerals, burial lots, monuments, &c. have grown to be a vast system of plunder and extortion under the guise of public opinion. Jay Gould.

This wonderful man continues to enlarge his operations, and Vanderbildt finds him an advancing and restless rival. The latter went to Europe, as it was supposed to avoid testifying in the telegraph case but as the lawyers adjourned it, was event ually obliged to appear in court. He now finds that Gould's new route to the great West (via New Jersey Central & Wabash) threatens to become the most dangerous opposition of what are now called the "Vanderbildt stocks." Gould's schemes are laid with such depth and precision that they at once awaken admiration. He is regardly the most wonderful vallend that they at once awaken admiration. He is certainly the most wonderful railroad operator in the world. Look at this last combination and its origin. Three years ago he saw the New Jersey Central and Wabash selling for a mere song. The former was quoted at eight and the latter at two. He at once saw that they might be connected and form a trunk line, and hence he bought the stock of each until he became its master. As the Wabash connects with St. Louis it became important to converge the praduct of the West on that point. To do this requires a mastery of the Iowa roads, which he also acquired. The result is duct of the West on that point. To do this requires a mastery of the Iowa roads, which he also acquired. The result is that St. Louis, instead of Chicago, may yet become a great grain depoy, and the latter must, in that case, suffer an im mense loss of trade. To connect Wabash with New Jersey Central a line must be built from Scranton to Buffalo, and this is already surveyed and put under contract.
In this manner two once worthless roads are made immensely valuable, and Gould makes $12,000,000. As the Vanderbilt ilmes terminate in Chicago, Gould's new trunk line may strike them a severe blow.
He will make every effort to have the grain trade, and his success is almost assured by the fact that his Jowa system enables chiphers to save three cents a bushel. Vanderbilt feels the thorn in his eide, but what can he do? He is in the hands of a bitter and relentless rival, whose genius is truly Napoleonic. Gould has long been determined to bring down the grandeur of the Vanderbilt dynasty, and it now looks as though his purpose might be successful. Should he live five years longer what a revolution in rallway matters will be accomplished!

Another new brick building is going up Another new brick building is going up at the nail works, just at the rear of the old warehouse. It is for an annealing furnace. This concern has added immensely to the value of its property in the last year, and shows evidences of prosperity that Bellaire is glad to see.

orown Friday evening. We have been told that Concord is not in the bounds of the Presbytery to which the Gravel Hill church belongs, and asked if we were not mistaken. Rev. Hench is of Concord Church, not of the town of Concord, Guernsey county. Concord Church is at Centerville, the postoffice of which is named Demos. It is only another example of a bad custom, that of having different names for the same place, of which we have so many instances around us.
